The Universe is everything we can touch, feel, sense, measure or detect. It includes living things, planets, stars, galaxies, dust clouds, light, and even time. However, even places far from stars and planets contain scattered particles of dust or a few hydrogen atoms per cubic.

The most popular theory of our universe's origin centers on a cosmic cataclysm unmatched in all of history—the big bang. This theory was born of the.

14 hours ago A gamma ray telescope has revealed that the rate of star formation across the Universe peaked 10 billion years ago and has been going.

This educational show explores many scientific questions and topics about the universe (Big Bang, the Sun, the planets, black holes, other galaxies. 14 hours ago It's been billion years since the hot Big Bang, and the Universe has come a long way in that time. Our cosmic vision extends for some 1 day ago We need to talk about the dark ages. No, not those dark ages after the fall of the western Roman Empire. The cosmological dark ages. The time.

Far from light and plunged into months-long darkness, Antarctica's South Pole Telescope is one of the best places on Earth for observing the universe.
